

ENERGIES 2050

An association committed for a new development model

For more than 15 years, ENERGIES 2050 has been committed at the international level to the fight against climate change and for the implementation of a shared and sustainable development for a more united society. ENERGIES 2050 brings together members and partners of more than 70 countries and implements innovative, demonstrative and replicable projects in as many countries.

The association and its network support international institutions, national governments, and local governments as well as multi-stakeholder coalitions in the development and implementation of strategies, programs of actions and projects.

ENERGIES 2050 intervenes according to a systemic, multi-level and inclusive approach. For example, the association has contributed to developing and implementing local climate-development strategies and plans, pilot projects and mobilizing climate finance for local governments. She has also supported several countries in the development and, then, the revision of their Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs), in their adaptation strategies, or in the development of national monitoring and evaluation systems or projects submitted to the Green Climate Fund. The association also writes methodological guides and develops and implements capacity building programs. This complementarity of actions between the different international-national and local levels makes it possible to articulate responses as close as possible to African cities and territories in the territorialisation of climate commitments and, particularly, the adaptation and resilience agenda.

ENERGIES 2050 is also involved in major international agendas: Observer for the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC), special consultative status for the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations (ECOSOC)... and in several international initiatives: UCLG Africa Climate Task Force, ART's PLANET, ethiCarbon®, Universal Declaration of Human Rights (DDHu), Francophonie Initiative for Sustainable Cities, Global Alliance for Buildings and Construction (Global ABC)...
