

2016
2011
2000
1985

postcard from space

Rapidly shrinking glaciers in Patagonia, Chile

Glaciers are retreating in most regions of the world, but in Patagonia, in the South of Chile, the retreat of the larger glaciers is extreme.

Paul and Mölg (2014) for the data of 1985, 2000 and 2011 (doi.org/10.3189/2014JoG14J104), and 'Glaciers_CCI' for the data of 2016.

Credits for the Sentinel-2 background image: Contains modified Copernicus Sentinel data (2017), processed by ESA

Copyright European Space Agency • www.esa.int

