

An eco-competitive coffee sector can serve as a model to transition the agricultural sector towards national green economy goals

