

Moving from commitment to action: combining mitigation and development objectives

Friday, 13 December 2019, 11:30-13:00
UNFCCC, Room 5

Starting from national policies to ratchet up climate ambitions consistent with the Paris climate targets, this event will present several studies that analyze how long-term, low-emission pathways interact with the SDGs. The OECD will discuss mitigation through a wellbeing lens, CD-LINKS will present on synergies and trade-offs between mitigation and sustainable development, and the COMMIT study on combining global targets with national policies and mid-century strategies will be presented.

Program:

Accelerating Climate Action - refocusing policies through a wellbeing lens

Simon Buckle (OECD)

Exploring feasibility of climate mitigation in the context of sustainable development

Bas van Ruijven (IIASA)

Building a bridge from current action to two degrees

George Safonov (HSE)

12.15 - 13.00: Panel discussion

Moderator: Bas van Ruijven (IIASA)

Panel Members:

Matthias Weitzel (JRC, European perspective on SDGs)

George Safonov (HSE, Russian perspective on policy implementation and SDGs)

Fu Sha (Energy Foundation China, Chinese perspective on policy implementation and SDGs)

Simon Buckle (OECD)