

Out of 170 financial institutions surveyed globally...

87% expect climate change to pose material risk to their business

75% do not incorporate climate into their decision-making