

Climate finance: Where are we ten years after the Copenhagen pledges?

Thursday, 12 December 2019 – 11:30-13:00 – Room 6 (Hall 4)

This side event will take stock of the first ten years of international climate finance for mitigation and adaptation in developing countries after the Copenhagen US$ 100 billion promise. It will also outline future perspectives for climate finance.

- Will Developed Countries Meet their US$100 Billion Commitment in 2020?
Bertram Zagema (Oxfam Novib, the Netherlands)
- The Practice and Politics of Climate Finance Accounting and Reporting since Copenhagen (2009)
Dr. Romain Weikmans (Université Libre de Bruxelles / Free University of Brussels, Belgium)
- Twenty-five Years of Adaptation Finance through a Climate Justice Lens
Prof. Mizan Khan (International Centre for Climate Change & Development, Bangladesh)
- The Role of Vulnerability in Allocating Aid for Adaptation to Climate Change
Prof. Carola Klöck (Sciences Po Paris, France)
- Overview of Adaptation Finance Flows to Uganda
Robert Bakiika (Environmental Management for Livelihood Improvement Bwaise Facility, Uganda)
- Mobilizing National Actors for Effective Utilization of International Climate Finance
Tasfia Tasnim (International Centre for Climate Change & Development, Bangladesh)

Moderator: Kevin Adams (Stockholm Environment Institute, Sweden)

