Clean Energy Financing Forums in 2010

Clean Energy Financing Forums bring together leading clean energy project developers and entrepreneurs from the respective region or country with investors, fund managers and banks that specialize in the clean energy sector.

Projects are competitively selected through calls for proposals and receive intensive coaching on the preparation and presentation of their business plans before they are showcased at the forums. Each forum typically includes: project development and financing workshops, an investor workshop, one-on-one meetings to facilitate deal making, and a high-level policy roundtable. The focus of the forum is on the business plan competition, to showcase the most promising clean energy investment opportunities in CTI PFAN's development pipeline.
