

gendercc - women for climate justice
Side Event at SB 28 in Bonn

More effective policies & measures - engendering better results through integrating gender aspects

Gender sensitive climate policy in practice – integrating greenhouse gas reduction, gender aspects and sustainable development

SB-28 Bonn 2008

gendercc - Women for Climate Justice

- Global network of women and gender activists
- To integrate gender justice into local, national and international climate policy
- To develop gender-just policies & measures, tools & training
- To provide a platform for information & exchange www.gendercc.net
- To prepare and lobby for joint positions

Speakers

Meike Spitzner, Wuppertal Institute, Germany: Transport policy

Annika Carlsson-Kanyama, FOI: Energy consumption

Dorah Lebelo, Greenhouseproject, South Africa: Energy

Angela Franz-Balsen, Uni Lueneburg, Germany: Communication

Facilitator: Gotelind Alber, Sustainable Energy and Climate Policy, Germany

Greenhouseproject South-Africa: Renewable Energy Technologies for Income-generation Activities

- Small business containers powered by 6 PV modules with 24V 1000Ah battery, 220V AC inverter
- For women driven micro-enterprises, in less resourced areas
- Possible services: retail of renewable energy and energy-efficient products, cell-phone charging, sewing, ICT centre, hair salon
- Integrated package, incl. technical skills and small business training for women
- Ownership models

Greenhouseproject South-Africa: Low-cost Rainwater Harvesting

- Improve access to water for poor women / households
- Directing roof runoff into a bank of drums, low-cost safe recycled materials
- For household use and irrigation of food gardens
- Reduction of urban runoff
- Training and monitoring, in particular water quality
- Partnership with the City of Johannesburg

Video about the Greenhouseproject South-Africa:

<http://globalonenessproject.org/videos/greenhouseproject?size=small>

Thanks for your participation,
bye-bye,
see you next time!

SB-28 Bonn 2008

