

Side Event: Big Oil, corporate interference, and protecting climate policy

TODAY: Wednesday, 25 May 2016

15:00—16:30

Room: Bonn III

Revelations that a major US transnational fossil fuel corporation knew about climate change since at least the 1970s highlight its vested interest in undermining strong climate policy. The panel discusses implications of the fossil fuel industry's climate deception, different legal strategies being employed, and how Parties can take protective action.

Corporate Europe Observatory Foundation (CEO), with speakers:

- Alden Meyer, Union of Concerned Scientists (UCS)
- Alyssa Johl, Center for International Environmental Law (CIEL)
- Tamar Lawrence-Samuel, Corporate Accountability International
