

Planning a just and equitable phase out of fossil fuel production to limit warming to 1.5°C

This event will present the case for a managed decline of the oil and gas industry, highlighting the case for governments to align the production of fossil fuels with the 1.5°C limit and highlighting local, national and international initiatives to end fossil fuel expansion.

Date: Thursday 11 November

Time: 15:00-16:15 GMT (Glasgow)

Location: Multimedia studio 3

Moderator: Silje Lundberg, Oil Change International

Agenda:

15.00: The science and the case for keeping fossil fuels in the ground, Silje Lundberg, Oil Change International

The case for action

15.10: Decline of the Fossil Fuel-industry - Nikki Reisch, Center for International Environmental Law (CIEL)

15.15: Financial institutions' climate impact from fossil fuels & deforestation - Robin Averbeck, Rainforest Action Network (RAN)

15.20: Q&A CIEL and RAN

Voices from the frontlines

15.30: Indigenous resistance to fossil fuels - Daniel T'seleie, Indigenous Climate Action

15.35: The fight against O&G infrastructure in Africa - Babawale Obayanju, Environmental Rights Action (ERA)

15.40: Q&A ICA and ERA

International initiatives to manage a wind down of fossil fuel production

15.50: About the Beyond Oil and Gas Alliance - Andrea Meza Murillo, Costa Rica Environment Ministry

15.55: About the Fossil Fuel Non-Proliferation Treaty Initiative - Alex Rafalowicz, Fossil Fuel Non-Proliferation Treaty Initiative

16.00: Q&A international initiatives

1610: End and thanks to everyone

Short bio on the speakers:

Silje Lundberg, OCI

Silje Lundberg is a Senior Campaigner at Oil Change International where she leads the work on a just and managed decline of North Sea oil and gas production. Silje has worked on supply-side policy for over a decade, following the Norwegian debate and policies closely. Through various grassroots initiatives and organizations, she's worked closely with local communities threatened by oil and gas exploration and built public resistance against the Norwegian oil and gas industry.

Nikki Reisch - CIEL

Nikki Reisch is the Director of the Climate & Energy Program at the Center for International Environmental Law (CIEL). CIEL uses the power of law to protect the environment, promote human rights, and ensure a just and sustainable society. As a human rights lawyer, researcher, and strategist, Nikki has been working on issues of corporate accountability and environmental justice for the past two decades.

Robin Averbeck - RAN

Robin Averbeck is Rainforest Action Network's Forest Program Director and has 15 years of experience working on international forests and social justice campaigns. They have worked in RAN's Forests program for over 10 years on its Conflict Palm Oil and Rainforest Free Paper campaigns and now as the Forest Program Director. Together with RAN's team, Robin has led corporate campaigns and negotiations targeting the biggest actors driving Indonesian deforestation, climate change and human and labor rights abuses.

Daniel T'seleie - Indigenous Climate Action

Daniel T'seleie is K'ahsho Got'ine Dene from Radili Ko (aka Fort Good Hope, Northwest Territories), which is an isolated Arctic community that is experiencing severe impacts of climate change. He is on ICA's steering committee, and has been advocating for climate justice and an end to fossil fuel extraction for the past decade. Daniel is also a student trainer of non-violent direct action, a former lawyer, and Chief Negotiator for his nation's self-government discussions with the Canadian state.

Babawale Obayanju - ERA

Babawale (Wale) Obayanju is a Nigerian who lives and works amongst the people of the Niger Delta Region. He is a climate justice campaigner working with peoples of the region. Wale works with digital media especially photography and films to shed light on the issues in the region. He works with Environmental Rights Action and is a co host of TellThatStory, a collective of creatives who highlight and proffer solutions (where possible) to issues befalling Mother Earth (www.tellthatstory.com.ng)

Minister Andrea Meza Murillo

Minister Andrea Meza was the Director of Climate Change for Costa Rica since 2015, where she directed the formulation and implementation of the National Decarbonization Plan with a view to eliminate Costa Rica's reliance on fossil fuels by 2050. She is now the Minister of Environment and Energy of Costa Rica, and co-chair for the Beyond Oil and Gas Alliance

Alex Rafalowicz - Treaty initiative

Alex Rafalowicz is the Global Director for the Fossil Fuel Non Proliferation treaty Initiative. He has worked as a policy analyst, campaigner, organiser and strategist for climate justice for 15 years including with the Global Campaign to Demand Climate Justice, the Climate Action Network, and 350.org.