COP 22 | November 9, 2016

Network Basics

- Established in 2014 by developing countries and bilateral donors, with initial financial support from Germany and the US
- Why? Growing importance of NAP processes, need for coordination of support & learning
- Secretariat: IISD
- Steering Committee: Developing countries & donors
- Participants from 53 countries

Our Niche

Coordination

NAP processes = massive coordination efforts across sectors, scales of governance, between different actors

Learning

Scaling-up and accelerating NAP processes requires learning.

What works? How to avoid potential problems and losing time?

Bilateral support

Bilateral agencies provide more adaptation-related ODA than multilaterals.

How best to align and leverage this support for NAP processes?

Our Objectives

Harnessing the collective knowledge and resources of governments, practitioners, donors and civil society, we aim to:

- » Facilitate sustained peer learning and exchange on challenges and opportunities associated with NAP process
- » Support national-level action on NAP development and implementation
- » Enhance bilateral support for adaptation and climate-sensitive sectors through coordination, with developing countries at the table to ensure that bilateral programs align with the priorities they set in the NAP process
